

Types of Bias

What is the definition of framing bias?

0 points

- ☒ The way in which information is presented or framed, which can influence people's perceptions and decisions
- ☐ The tendency to favor information that confirms preexisting beliefs
- ☐ The bias introduced by systematically excluding certain types of participants from a study
- ☐ The tendency to remember negative experiences more vividly than positive ones

What is the definition of selection bias?

0 points

- ☐ The tendency for people to remember unusual events more easily than typical ones
- ☐ The tendency to draw conclusions based on insufficient or unrepresentative data
- ☐ The bias introduced by systematically excluding certain types of participants from a study
- ☐ The tendency to favor information that confirms preexisting beliefs

Recall bias is a type of bias that occurs when study participants inaccurately recall or report information about past events, experiences, or behaviors.

0 points

- ☐ True
- ☐ False

What is the definition of recency bias?

0 points

- ☐ The tendency to draw conclusions based on insufficient or unrepresentative data
- ☐ The bias introduced by systematically excluding certain types of participants from a study
- ☐ The way in which information is presented or framed, which can influence people's perceptions and decisions
- ☐ The tendency to give greater weight to recent events than earlier ones

Which of the following is an example of cognitive bias?

0 points

- ☐ The tendency to remember negative experiences more vividly than positive ones
- ☐ The tendency to believe that the majority is always right
- ☐ The bias introduced by the way questions are asked in a survey
- ☐ The bias introduced by selectively presenting data that supports a particular point of

Which of the following is an example of confirmation bias?

0 points

- ☐ A scientist carefully considering all data before drawing a conclusion
- ☒ A person only seeking out information that supports their preexisting beliefs
- ☐ A researcher conducting a double-blind study to minimize bias
- ☐ None of the above

